Dazzling Napkin Holders..

Up to par with Otsar standards, the participants created magnificent napkin holders. With Pesach songs ringing in our ears, we jumped right in. We each received wires and translucent blue and white beads.

The participants strung the beads, tied the wire around the holder and created another string of beads. Eddie J did a combination; one string of blue beads and the other with white. Lila was envisioning this beautiful centerpiece adorning her Seder table. The participants tied the wires in a zig zag formation, in the shape of a star. Stay tuned for our royal mock Seder taking place next week, where the participants will be wined and dined!!

Parachute Activity..

On Monday, the participants were "flying high"! Staff announced we would be doing a parachute game. The participants cheered when they heard the latest development. Out came a giant-size, colorful parachute.

We tossed glitter beach balls in the center and turned on beat"y music. The participants vigorously shook the parachute up and down.

Gita's smile extended from one ear to the other. Maria impressed us with her incredible strength. Hold your breath, there is more fun coming! We lifted up the parachute and together with staff, the participants ran under to the other side. Peryl was breathless and made it just in time, before the parachute floundered to the floor. It was heartwarming to watch everyone work together, like one big, happy family! We all know that Otsar Day Hab has a special "flare" that attracts those far and near!!

Highlawn Library..

On Thursday morning, a lucky group of participants, including Yaakov and Miriam, trooped to the Highlawn library. We entered the spacious room and awaited the program. We were given several choices of videos. A Dog's Journey won out. The participants sat spellbound as they watched this fascinating movie about a dog that steps up to the plate and takes care of its owners. All too soon, it was time to leave. We are looking forward to our next visit!

Kitchen Buzz..

Join me as we take a peek inside our kitchen group. Our seasoned chefs have mastered many culinary skills and handle these tasks in stride.

On Monday, we had nutritious fish, rice and vegetable salad. Tuesday brought along a special Rosh Chodesh treat: potato kugel, arguably the best lunch served at Day Hab. Our stomachs grumbled in anticipation as we prepared the food. On Wednesday, we were treated to steaming vegetable soup. We topped it off on Thursday with noodle cottage cheese kugel. The lucky group of participants hammered away but their efforts surely paid off. We were all impressed with how flavorsome the food tasted. Thank you Otsar for preparing a top-notch menu!!
